Johnny Grape Launches Online Drinks Store for Consumers and Hospitality Businesses Across Europe

Portugal-based supplier opens johnnygrape.com, offering wines, spirits, champagne and soft drinks in nine languages

Faro, Algarve Nov 11, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - Johnny Grape, a drinks supplier based in the Algarve, today announced the launch of its online store at johnnygrape.com. The store sells wines, spirits, champagne, beer, soft drinks and water to consumers and to hospitality businesses across Europe.

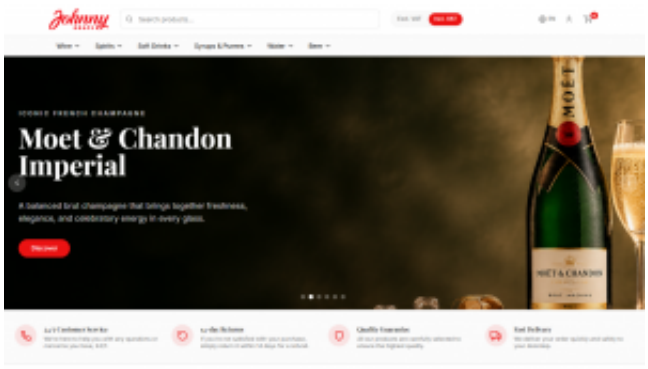

The catalogue opens with around 200 products. It ranges from Portuguese wines to international spirits, cognacs, gins and alcohol-free drinks. Prices are shown up front, and orders are placed and paid online in a few steps.

The store is available in nine languages: English, Portuguese, Spanish, French, German, Italian, Dutch, Swedish and Polish. Johnny Grape ships from Portugal to customers across the European Union, with most of its sales so far going to buyers outside Portugal.

"Buying drinks for a restaurant or bar is still slow and fragmented in most of Europe," said João Uva, founder of Johnny Grape. "You call several suppliers, wait for price lists and order by message. We built Johnny Grape so hospitality business owners can see real prices instantly, and order in minutes, and so anyone at home can buy the same bottles from the same store."

Johnny Grape is operated by Fizzyhorizon, Unipessoal Lda, and the Johnny Grape name is a registered trademark in Portugal. The founder brings more than ten years of experience in hospitality to the business. The company plans to expand its catalogue over the coming months.

The full range is available to browse and order online at johnnygrape.com.
