Justin Woll Brings Ecommerce and Advertising Experience to Service Businesses Through DigitalFounder.com

Justin Woll's work spans ecommerce mentorship at Beyond Six Figures and lead acquisition systems for service businesses at DigitalFounder.com.

Miami, Florida Nov 12, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - Justin Woll, founder of Beyond Six Figures and DigitalFounder.com, brings his ecommerce and advertising experience to coaches, consultants, agencies and other service-based businesses through DigitalFounder.com. The company provides done-for-you lead acquisition and advertising systems, extending Woll's work beyond ecommerce into businesses that rely on inquiries and consultations to reach customers.

Woll is an entrepreneur and ecommerce operator whose work spans paid advertising, offers and conversion optimization. His businesses address two different settings: building and operating online stores, and developing the marketing systems used by service providers.

Beyond Six Figures provides ecommerce mentorship and done-for-you store building. The company's focus includes the offers, advertising and conversion processes involved in running an online business. Its mentorship work serves entrepreneurs developing their ecommerce operations.

DigitalFounder.com focuses on installing client acquisition systems for service businesses. Its offering brings together advertising, sales funnels and an automated backend. The company's website describes work on landing pages, customer relationship management, follow-up systems and tracking, connecting the initial advertisement with the process that follows a prospective customer's response. Its backend offering also includes email automations, SMS automations and appointment reminders as part of the installation.

Information about Woll's ecommerce mentorship is available through Beyond Six Figures. Business owners seeking information about the service-business offering can find details at DigitalFounder.com.
