Tech Turtle Launches Free Website Builds Nationwide With Plans Starting at $14.99 Per Month

Wisconsin based web design company introduces a subscription model with no upfront website design fees, a standard 72 hour turnaround, and affordable options for small businesses across the United States.

Wausau, Wisconsin Nov 3, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - Tech Turtle Introduces Free Website Builds to Make Professional Web Design More Accessible to Small Businesses

Tech Turtle Websites & Marketing, a Wisconsin-based web design company serving businesses nationwide, has introduced a subscription based website service that eliminates traditional upfront website development fees. The company offers free website builds with monthly plans starting at $14.99 and a standard turnaround time of 72 hours.

The service is designed for small businesses that need a professional online presence but may not have the budget for traditional website development, which can require a substantial initial investment.

A Different Approach to Small Business Website Design

Rather than charging customers thousands of dollars to build a website, Tech Turtle includes the initial website design and development in its monthly subscription plans.

The company handles the website building process, hosting, and technical setup, allowing business owners to focus on running their businesses.

Tech Turtle offers three subscription options:

- Starter – $14.99/month: A professionally designed one page website for businesses that need a simple online presence.
- Business – $29/month: A website with up to five pages and standard business features.
- Business Pro – $50/month: A business website with additional functionality, including customer relationship management (CRM) tools and an online booking calendar.

The plans are designed to accommodate different business needs while keeping monthly costs predictable.

Customers are not required to sign long-term contracts, and website builds are offered without a separate upfront design fee. The company also includes the first year of domain registration with its plans, subject to its service terms.

Helping Small Businesses Get Online Faster

Another central feature of Tech Turtle's service is its standard 72 hour website turnaround.

Traditional website development can involve lengthy planning, design, and revision processes. Tech Turtle has structured its service to simplify those steps and help qualifying small business projects launch quickly.

The company provides website design services for contractors, home service businesses, local retailers, professional service providers, entrepreneurs, and other small businesses throughout the United States.

In addition to new website builds, Tech Turtle offers website redesigns, hosting, CRM functionality, online booking tools, and other digital business solutions.

A Wisconsin Company Serving Businesses Nationwide

Based in Wausau, Wisconsin, Tech Turtle combines its local small-business roots with the ability to serve customers across the country.

The company's subscription model reflects a broader shift toward making professional digital services accessible through manageable recurring costs rather than large one time investments.

Tech Turtle aims to simplify the process of getting a business online by offering clear pricing, professional design, and ongoing technical support.

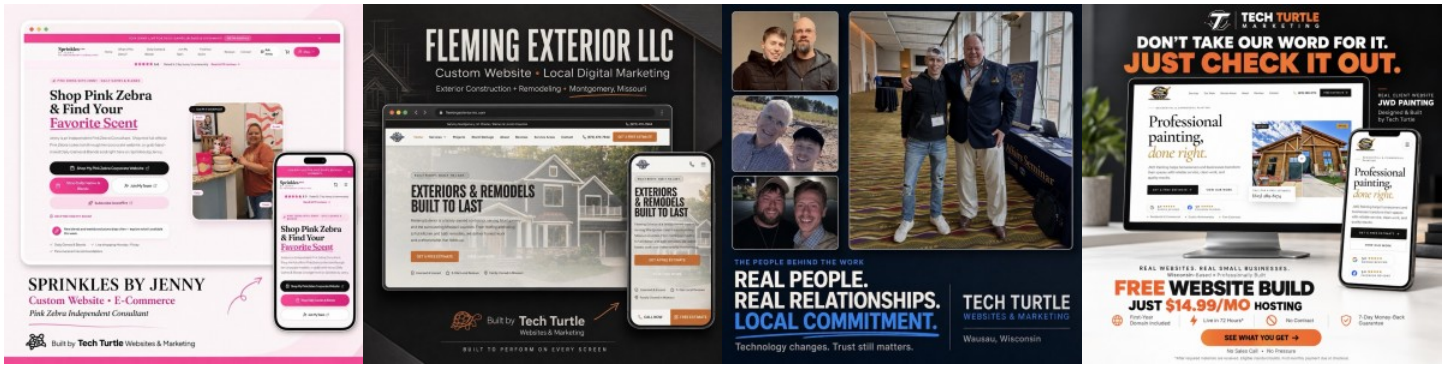

While website creation is included without an upfront design fee, an active subscription is required for continued hosting and service. Website ownership and optional buyout arrangements are governed by the company's published terms.
