Three Black Men Documentary Screens Tonight at Minneapolis' Capri Theater

Free public screening on Saturday, November 21, 2026, at 6:30 p.m. CST, with special guest responder Craig Rice

Minneapolis, Minnesota Nov 21, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - The Capri Theater, 2027 West Broadway, will host a free screening tonight of Three Black Men, a feature documentary that follows New York Times bestselling author of My Grandmother's Hands Resmaa Menakem, philosopher and poet Bayo

Akomolafe, and community organizer Orland Bishop as they trace the transatlantic slave route in reverse. Special guest responder Craig Rice will join the evening.

About the Film

The journey runs from Los Angeles to Salvador da Bahia, Brazil, and then to Accra, Ghana. Each destination holds pieces of Black history and shows the forced migration, survival, and devastation of the millions who crossed the Atlantic.

The film challenges oversimplified views of Blackness and the stereotypes and constraints placed on Black masculinity. It connects modern realities to the historical origins of the Black experience, and it aims to foster collective dreaming, healing, and action, and to build global Black solidarity.

The filmmakers blend observational footage, archival material, graphics, animation, and interviews. The soundtrack mixes traditional and popular music, original music, poetry, drums, and natural sounds.

"We don't just inherit the world, we co-create it," said Orland Bishop.

"We are retracing the roots of black capture, going back to the place of no return," said Bayo Akomolafe.
