WebBabyShower updates mobile controls for virtual baby shower video calls

The November update brings Chat to the phone toolbar, improves control visibility and keeps the full camera image in view.

Toronto, Ontario Nov 27, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - WebBabyShower has released mobile video-call improvements for hosts and guests celebrating a new baby online. Released on November 18, the update makes controls easier to see when a phone is held upright, puts Chat directly on the mobile toolbar and improves access to Help.

The changes include more readable buttons and text inputs, stronger contrast and adjustments to the Chat composer. Video tiles preserve the full camera image instead of cropping it to fill the available space. Hosts and guests can find Chat without rotating their phone or opening a separate toolbar menu.

These changes address practical tasks during a family call: finding a control, reading a message and seeing what another participant is showing. For example, keeping the whole camera image visible can matter when someone holds up a gift.

The video room is part of WebBabyShower's existing baby shower service. Hosts can create a shower website, send invitations, collect RSVPs and share registry links. Guests can contribute messages, photos and videos around the celebration. The mobile update improves the call controls within that service.

Ahead of a gathering, a useful preparation step is to have a host and guest check the call from the phones they intend to use. They can confirm camera framing, locate Chat and Help, and check microphone and camera permissions before the rest of the group arrives.

WebBabyShower's website provides an overview of the service, examples of shower designs and links to its current plans and guest support. Product information is available at WebBabyShower.

WebBabyShower is owned and operated by Nity and keeps its own name and website. Nity buys and improves products that make life more joyful. Its portfolio also includes the personalized portrait service Pattes & Moi. Nity's WebBabyShower acquisition announcement provides further information.

Media Contact

Nity, Inc.

@nity.io

+1 404-795-4595

https://webbabyshower.com/

Source : WebBabyShower

See on IssueWire